Porsche Chisley is the Owner of Chisley Consulting Group, LLC. and the Sow Gifted Blog. She began her career in education as a Teach for America Corps member serving kindergarten students in St. Louis, Missouri. After completing the corps, she continued teaching at the middle school level in Central Ohio.

Later, Porsche pursued educational leadership opportunities outside of the classroom and has since held multiple management roles centered around early learning advocacy, school improvement, turnaround and innovation, and data analytics.

Porsche has served on teacher-based and district leadership teams and led district turnaround efforts as a Director of Student Data. Her laser-focus on equity and the use of evidence-based instructional practices resulted in gains on the Ohio Schools Report Card. In just 2-years' time, Porsche's leadership improved the letter grade on the Progress Component from a "D" to a "B" for her contracted school.

Porsche currently works full-time as a School Improvement Director and serves as an independent contractor on the Ohio Department of Education's District Review Team.

Porsche is an energetic speaker and training facilitator. Her energy has gained her a 100% training satisfaction rate and 100% of participants recommend her for facilitating future sessions.
